NOTICE TO MARINERS.

The following information respecting the coast of Lower California, derived from Purser Christian of the U. S. ship Cyane, is communicated by James J. Jarvis, Esq., formerly editor of the Polynesian.

On most of the charts the coast of Lower California is placed 30 miles too far to the west, while on others it is in the opposite error. The outline of the coast is imperfectly given, particularly in the neighborhood of Marguerite Bay. The north point makes out to the distance of about 30 miles, being as near as could be ascertained in 24 deg. 40 min. north lat. To the east and northeast the coast forms an open bay, off which lie two islands not laid down on the charts with a low sandy beach, outside of which the breakers make for more than a league. Inside is a deep lagoon connecting with Marguerite Bay, and having two mouths about 20 miles apart, towards which the tide sets with great force. A vessel bound down the coast, unaware of the true position of this point, is liable to be set by the flood tide into one or the other of these mouths, as the land is too low to be seen far. The Hope, Capt. Heath, was wrecked at the easternmost entrance, and the Com. Stockton, Young, at the westernmost.

COME AT LAST.—We have received via Valparaiso a file of the New York Herald of the 8th January. It is filled with interesting matter most of which has been anticipated.

The Montreal, Doune, hence, via China, arrived at New York Jan. 3d. The Xylon, Millington, from Manila same date.

We have also received Nos. of the Neighbor for March and April. When shall we have a regular mail?

Memoranda.

(WEEKEND)—The California Star of May 27th says the H. B. Co.'s bark Vancouver, Mott, hence, was wrecked at the mouth of the Columbia River on 8th of May, vessel and cargo a total loss. The vessel, we understand, was insured in London. The Vancouver had on board a valuable cargo in London, although it is supposed she had previously landed a portion of her original English cargo at Port Victoria. There was no insurance on the cargo.

The bark Mary, direct from Boston, has beaten every thing in her trip. The Minerva, in which we were one of the sufferers, has heretofore borne the palm, having been 172 days direct, but she has been detained by the Mary 9 days, she having been 180 days direct.

The store ship Maritima arrived at Monterey on the 17th of May to discharge and will for China touching at this port.

The brig J. R. S. (formerly Ontario) arrived at San Francisco May 3d, 46 days from Valparaiso, with an assorted cargo of mules.

The bark Olga arrived at San Francisco April 29th, 129 days from Boston and sailed the 28th for the leeward ports.

The bark Natalia arrived at San Francisco April 17th from Manilla, and sailed May 12th for San Francisco from Oregon April 12th and sailed for Manilla on the 21st with government stores.

The brig Sabine arrived at San Francisco March 16, 166 days from Boston, and sailed for the leeward ports the 22d of April.

The U. S. transport Anita arrived at San Francisco from Oregon April 21st.

The brig Flecha, hence, arrived at San Francisco March 31st, and sailed for Monterey May 12th. She was reported to sail for this port about the 1st of June.
